Curriculum for the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics

§ 1 Objectives and qualification profile

(1) The master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics at the University of Vienna aims at providing qualified students with an academic education at the intersection of philosophy and economics (in particular in economics and practical philosophy) according to the current state of research and with regard to the competences mentioned under (2). In addition to philosophy and economics, students can focus on topics in related disciplines, such as political science.

(2) Graduates of the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics at the University of Vienna have the necessary academic knowledge, reflection skills and reasoning skills required for the solution of pressing social, economic and political issues in modern societies.

- Graduates of the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics at the University of Vienna have profound knowledge of the current state of research in practical philosophy as well as business and economics. Therefore, graduates are qualified to take a clear position on normative issues of business and economics, based on their knowledge of factual economic relations and through convincing argumentative reasoning. They are able to assess the factual economic order with a view to possible alternatives and against the background of different concepts of ethical standards and practical requirements.

- Graduates of the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics at the University of Vienna competently use methodology to interpret economic data. Their knowledge of business and economics and their competences in philosophy of science and philosophy of social sciences qualify them for a critical reflection on empirical methods and economic models. In addition, graduates are able to understand research activities in social sciences and in philosophy in a social context, and to critically examine them.

- Graduates of the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics at the University of Vienna know the philosophical basics of economic decision models. They are well-informed about current developments in these research areas and are able to put these developments in relation to both socio-political contexts as well as to interdisciplinary connections with other social science disciplines.

Graduates of the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics at the University of Vienna have a broad theoretical understanding of relevant issues and great problem-solving competences in the area of economic and social issues. They have skills qualifying them for careers in public service and the private sector (such as political parties, trade unions, institutions of the Federal Government, the Provinces and the municipalities, international organisations, non-governmental organisations, media companies, cultural industry, public relations, business journalism, corporate and strategy counselling or knowledge management and corporate social responsibility in companies).

Furthermore, graduates of the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics at the University of Vienna are qualified for a doctoral programme in the area of philosophy and economics.

§ 2 Duration and scope

(1) The workload for the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics comprises 120 ECTS credits. This is equivalent to a degree programme duration of four semesters.

(2) The programme is deemed completed if 50 ECTS credits as defined in the provisions on compulsory modules, 48 ECTS credits as defined in the provisions on elective modules, 18 ECTS credits as defined in the provisions on the master’s thesis and 4 ECTS credits as defined in the provisions on the master’s examination have been obtained.

§ 3 Entry requirements

(1) To be admitted to the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics students must have completed an eligible bachelor’s programme or an eligible degree programme at the same level of university education at a recognised Austrian or foreign post-secondary educational institution.

(2) The bachelor’s programme in Philosophy at the University of Vienna if students have the knowledge specified in para. 3b and the bachelor’s programme in Economics at the University of Vienna if students have the knowledge specified in para. 3a are certainly eligible.

(3) As qualitative admission requirements, students have to provide evidence of

   a) knowledge of the subject area of philosophy comprising 15 ECTS credits, as well as
   b) knowledge of the subject area of economics comprising 15 ECTS credits.

   To provide evidence of knowledge of the subject area of philosophy, students can complete the extension curriculum Philosophicum or the extension curriculum Ethics at the University of Vienna. To provide evidence of knowledge of the subject area of economics, students can complete the extension curriculum Principles of Economics at the University of Vienna.

(4) To compensate for significant disciplinary differences, supplementary examinations can be stipulated, which have to be completed until the end of the second semester of the master’s programme. The Rectorate may specify which supplementary examinations are a prerequisite for taking examinations specified in the Curriculum of the master’s programme.

(5) If the significant disciplinary differences according to para. 4 exceed the extent of 30 ECTS credits, this is not considered an eligible degree programme and the student is not admitted to the master’s programme.

(6) The language of instruction of the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics is English. Therefore, students must have English language proficiency corresponding to level B2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages). Regarding the proof of language proficiency, the regulations of the University of Vienna apply.

(7) Further regulations about the selection procedure will be specified in provisions by the Rectorate of the University of Vienna published in the University Gazette.

§ 4 Academic degree

Graduates of the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics are awarded the degree "Master of Arts", abbreviated as MA. Where the academic degree is stated this must be after the name.

| Module outcomes | Students can focus on the three core areas of philosophy and economics (philosophy, history, and methodology of economics; rationality and decision-making; ethics, welfare and justice) and have an overview of the core topics and current discussions in these three areas. Students adopt a clear position on methods, possibilities and challenges of interdisciplinary research in philosophy and economics, based on case examples and in a reflected way. Students are proficient in written and oral academic communication as well as in the analysis of academic texts. Students have profound knowledge of selected texts in the area of philosophy and economics. |
| Module structure | Subject to availability, students either select 1) 1 course (pi) Introduction to Topics and Methods in Philosophy and Economics (4 ECTS credits, pi, 2 SSt.) and 1 course (pi) Reading Seminar / Reading Course in Philosophy and Economics (4 ECTS credits, pi, 2 SSt.) It is recommended to complete both courses in the same semester. OR 2) 1 course (pi) Introduction to Topics and Methods and Readings in Philosophy and Economics (8 ECTS credits, pi, 4 SSt.) |
| Proof of performance | Passing of all continuous assessment courses specified in the module (pi) (8 ECTS credits) |

M2 "Foundations of Philosophy and Economics" 22 ECTS credits

This group of elective modules provides the foundation for advanced studies in philosophy and economics. Students deepen their prior knowledge. This module aims at evening out existing differences in prior academic knowledge (see section 3).

Students complete modules comprising 22 ECTS credits in total from the group of elective modules Foundations of Philosophy and Economics according to their prior education and special interests. The Directorate of Studies has to individually define the modules in advance. The University assesses whether they have acquired relevant prior knowledge during their bachelor’s studies and which of the modules Central Topics and Texts in Theoretical Philosophy; Central Topics and Texts in Practical Philosophy; Foundational Microeconomics, and Foundational Econometrics they have to complete. In this context, the following provisions apply:

- All students who do not have prior knowledge of philosophy of science have to complete the module Central Topics and Texts in Theoretical Philosophy.
- All students who do not have prior knowledge of practical philosophy, especially of applied ethics, moral theory and political philosophy have to complete the module Central Topics and Texts in Practical Philosophy.
- All students who do not have prior knowledge of formal microeconomic modelling of consumer and producer behaviours as well as of general equilibrium on an advanced bachelor's level have to complete the module Foundational Microeconomics.
- All students who do not have prior knowledge of the theoretical basics of econometrics or statistics at university level have to complete the module Foundational Econometrics.
- Students are allowed to take any non-compulsory modules according to their interests.

Module outcomes

Students have practical experience in presentation techniques relevant for research that they acquired through the presentation and discussion of concepts, partial results and results obtained during the preparation of the master’s thesis. Students reflect on the contents and methods of their own research project and other students’ research projects.

Module structure

SE MA Research Seminar in Philosophy and Economics, 5 ECTS credits, 2 SSt. (pi)

Proof of performance

Passing of the continuous assessment course specified in the module (pi) (5 ECTS credits)

§ 6 Master's thesis

(1) The master’s thesis serves to demonstrate the student’s ability to achieve adequate standards of content and methodology when independently addressing academic topics. The assignment for the master’s thesis must be chosen in a way that the student can reasonably be expected to complete it within six months.

(2) The topic of the master’s thesis must be taken from one of the compulsory modules and/or elective modules. If a different topic is selected or if there is uncertainty regarding the allocation of the selected topic, the competent body responsible for study matters decides on whether or not it is admissible.

(3) The master's thesis comprises 18 ECTS credits.

§ 7 Master's examination

(1) To be admitted to a master’s examination the student must have successfully passed all required modules and examinations and the master’s thesis must have been positively assessed.

(2) The master’s examination is a public defence. This form of examination consists of a defence and an examination on the academic disciplines related to the master's thesis. Grading will be conducted as stipulated in the Statutes of the University of Vienna.

(3) The master's examination comprises 4 ECTS credits.

§ 8 Mobility during the master’s programme

The competent body responsible for study matters is responsible for the recognition of academic achievements completed abroad.

§ 9 Course classification

(1) All courses with non-continuous assessment (npi) have to be offered as one of the following types of courses:

Lecture (Vorlesung, VO), non-continuous assessment (npi): Lectures serve the purpose of presenting topics, subjects and methods within the degree programme in Philosophy and Economics while critically taking different academic opinions into account. A lecture is completed with an oral or written examination.

(2) All courses with continuous assessment (pi) are offered as one of the following types of courses:

Course (Kurs, KU), continuous assessment (pi): Courses combine elements of the three traditional types of courses: lecture, exercise and seminar. The lecturer presents the prepared teaching material, example exercises are worked on and contemporary research findings are analysed and discussed orally or in writing. Assessment comprises at least three independent partial assessments. Typically there is at least one written examination, which is complemented by additional written examinations.
Exercise (Übung, UE), pi: Exercises aim to solve specific tasks constructively and achieve the degree programme's practical, profession-oriented objectives. Assessment is based on active contributions and – if required – a presentation and/or preparation of one or more written papers.

Seminar (Seminar, SE), pi: Seminars aim at the development of theoretical and methodological competences in an advanced stage of studies. The focus is on independent academic work and the adequate (written and oral) presentation of results.

SE MA Research Seminar (SE), continuous assessment (pi): A course at the end of the master's programme. This is a seminar for students in the final stage of the master's programme. Students present and discuss concepts, partial results and findings of their master's thesis and position the methodology and content of their master’s thesis in the context of the entire field of philosophy and economics.

§ 10 Courses with a limited number of participants and registration procedures

(1) For courses with continuous assessment that are offered especially for this Curriculum, the maximum number of participants is 30. Courses with continuous assessment from other curricula that students attend as part of this Curriculum are subject to the limited number of participants as specified in the related curriculum.

(2) Modalities concerning the registration for courses and examinations as well as the allocation of places in courses are governed by the stipulations in the Statutes of the University of Vienna.

§ 11 Examination regulations

(1) Proof of performance in courses
The lecturer of a course is responsible for making the necessary announcements according to the stipulations in the Statutes.

(2) Examination content
The examination content relevant to preparing and holding examinations must be in line with the required number of ECTS credits. This also applies to module examinations.

(3) Examination procedure
The examination procedure is subject to the stipulations of the Statutes of the University of Vienna.

(4) No double recognition and no dual use
Courses taken and examinations passed in the three-year bachelor's programme, which constitute entry requirements for the master’s programme, cannot be recognised again in the master's programme. Courses taken and examinations passed from another compulsory or elective module of the degree programme cannot be recognised within another module within the same degree programme. This also applies to recognition procedures.

(5) Examination results must be allocated to the relevant module by the stated ECTS figure and must not be allocated to different proofs of performance.

§ 12 Entry into force

(1) This Curriculum will enter into force upon announcement in the University Gazette of the University of Vienna as of 1 October 2019.

(2) The amendments to the Curriculum as stated in the University Gazette of 29 June 2021, number 192, 41st edition enter into force on 1 October 2021.

Abbreviations:
SSt. (Semesterstunde): hour per week per semester.
npi (nicht prüfungsimmanent): non-continuous assessment.
pi (prüfungsimmanent): continuous assessment.
These types and their abbreviations: see § 9.
Curriculum for the master’s programme in Philosophy and Economics – Version: June 2023

Only the texts published in the University Gazette of the University of Vienna are legally binding.

(3) The amendments to the Curriculum as stated in the University Gazette of 27 June 2022, number 312, 45th edition enter into force on 1 October 2022.

(4) The amendments to the Curriculum as stated in the University Gazette of 26 June 2023, number 131, 30th edition enter into force on 1 October 2023.

§13 Transitional provisions

(1) This Curriculum applies to all students who commence their degree programme as of the winter semester of 2019.

(2) If, at a later stage of the degree programme, courses are no longer offered which were compulsory under the original curricula, the competent body responsible for study matters decides ex officio (equivalence regulation) or at the request of the student which courses and examinations have to be completed instead.

(3) The competent body responsible for study matters specified in the organisational regulations is entitled to determine in general or on a case-by-case basis which of the courses taken and examinations passed will be recognised for this Curriculum.
